

GETTING TOGETHER IS THE POLICY

Relations of Farmers and Manufacturers—President Gordon and Mr. Charles Dunning

The recent annual meeting of the Canadian-Manufacturers' Association in Montreal was noteworthy for the fact that Mr. Charles Dunning, manager of the Saskatchewan Co-Operative Company at Regina, delivered on special invitation, a striking address on the problems of Western Canada. Mr. Dunning's frank but friendly address was heartily received by the manufacturers, who found much to ponder over in his remarks on the relations of the farmers and the manufacturers, and the East and the West.

Mr. C. B. Gordon, the retiring President of the C.M.A., in his annual address, spoke in some measure along the same lines as Mr. Dunning, emphasizing the desirability of better relations being established between the farmers and the manufacturers, and pointing out that a good deal of the friction arose through misunderstanding.

Bear No Ill Will
Commenting on the meeting, "Th

Journal of Commerce" of Montreal of which Hon. W. S. Fielding, former Minister of Finance in the Laurier Government, is editor, deals as follows with the question of the relation between the farmers and the man-

"President Gordon of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association delivered an instructive and, in the main, far-sighted address yesterday afternoon on the present economic situation in Canada, though there may be parts of it that cannot be endorsed by a socialist. It is to be hoped that a representative of the C.I.O. will be able to

It is refreshing to find that a representative of a particular class in the community is able to take a large and detached view of an admittedly delicate situation in which class interests have too largely predominated. Extremists on both sides sometimes use language which tends to needless broaden the differences between manufacturer and farmer. The leading editorial in a recent issue of a well-known farmers' paper is a case in point, in which the programme of both the Liberal and the Conservative parties in the Province of Ontario was held up to merciless criticism.

because these were said to deal exclusively with the interests of town and city dwellers and had little or nothing to say of the place and welfare of the farmer in our social economy. The truth is, that the tremendous development that has taken place on the American continent the last generation has been largely urban development, with European problems and policies to be investigated. It is perfectly true, as Mr Gordon suggests, that neither the artisan nor the manufacturing classes have any ill-will toward the farming class. Nor is there any ill-will on the part of the farmers towards the manufacturers. The interests of the two classes seem at times to conflict. It should be the work of thoughtful men on both sides to diminish the cause of difference and to bring about the friendly co-operation that is needed for the success of all.

Home Market Necessary
Mr. Gordon's remarks on the question of our tariff policy were moderate and on lines that will be largely approved. He told his auditors in uncertain terms that they should not look for any immediate or considerable increase in the tariff, but rather that the future development of the tariff should be along scientific lines modified as it must be from time to time to meet particular problems. Naturally, he claims the tariff is not responsible for any apparent lack of success in the farming industry.

appealed to the farmers to take advantage of the great and continual increasing home market for cattle and dairy products, and drew attention to the contention that wheat farming is a losing game in the West. This opinion was advanced that our Western farmers must adopt the mixed are to meet with the fullest measure of success. He deplored the fact that our stock industry is not as prosperous as it ought to be, and maintained that the tariff could in no way be blamed for that state of affairs. Rather, he found here a particular instance in which the tariff might modified to meet a particular need

When Noah entered the Ark, March 17 was celebrated in the middle ages as the day on which Noah entered the ark, and a very busy day it must have been if we are to believe the medieval dramatists, for Noah's wife was always the typical shrew of the period.

In the Chester cycle when Noah tells her of the coming flood, the money at him for his credulity and abuses him for always bringing bad news. "Bidden hold her tongue," her abuse only becomes more stinging. Noah strikes her, she hits back, and a good set-to ensues till the man retires to make the ark. When it is finished she refuses to enter.

"What com' th'is," says Noah. "Why standest thou there?" Finally her sons bring her in by force, and Noah welcomes her.

"Welcome, wife, unto this ark," and for his welcome he gets a whacking, which makes him exclaim:

Look, that woman be crabbed arse
And son are make, I dare well saye.

Defeated by a Fit of Rage.
In Dietrich's "Life of Beethoven" is the great composer's own story of how he became deaf:

"I was writing an opera. I had to deal with a very nervous and capricious tutor. I had already written two great operas to the same words, neither of which pleased him, and also a third, which he did not care for the first time he tried it, although he took it away with him. I was thinking he would have done so with him and had begun to settle myself to something else when I had told aside. I had hardly written it when he came back and told me that it was not good. I had heard a knock at the door, which I recognized as that of my tutor.

"I sprang up from my table in such a rage that as the man came into the room I flung myself upon the floor, as they do on the stage" (here he threw up his arms and gesticulated in illustration, "but I fell upon my hands. When I got up I found I was deaf and from that moment I have remained so. The doctor said I injured the nerves."
